

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are systems and methods for reporting device problems. In one embodiment, a system or a method pertains to collecting device data relevant to diagnosing or fixing a problem encountered by a user of a device, collecting user input 5 regarding the encountered problem, and generating a customized problem report that describes the problem and that includes the collected device data.